Resources for Educators and Churches

Live Q&A Video Chat

If you are having an education-related event and would like to host a live Q&A video chat with Katie Snyder, Curriculum Specialist and POINT Coordinator, or with Rev. Meg Rift, Curriculum Editor, we would be happy to answer questions and discuss curriculum with your group. You decide the date, time, and platform for our video chat, and we'll "join" you to answer people's questions and share available and upcoming resources.

Presbyterians Organized in Nurture and Teaching (POINT)

POINT Partners can help with questions that people may have about curriculum resources for congregations and presbyteries. If you are interested in finding out who the POINT Partners are in your region, suggesting people who could be POINT Partners for a presbytery, or becoming a part of POINT yourself, contact Katie Snyder at ksnyder@presbypub.com. POINT Partners are encouraged to attend the POINT training event at APCE, and they receive access to our online POINT resource library and Facebook group. POINT also offers partners opportunities to participate in giveaways, exclusive webinars, and more.

If you would like to be in the know about what is being developed in the curriculum world but don't want the responsibilities of being a POINT Partner, consider becoming a member of POINT. It's free! You will still receive the latest information about new curricula but will not need to be a representative to your presbytery.

Pop-up Bookstores

Pop-up bookstores allow you to have books and curriculum products available for display at your event. When you request a pop-up bookstore at least six weeks prior to your event, we pick books (children's books included) and curriculum products most relevant to your event and ship samples with order forms to you. We offer books at a discount of 35% off full retail price, and some curriculum items will be discounted as well. Pop-up bookstores are designed for events of more than fifty participants, such as regional APCE events and presbytery meetings. Everyone at your event can review the display selections and place orders. Individual orders over $50 receive free shipping. To set up a pop-up bookstore for your event, contact Katie Snyder at ksnyder@presbypub.com.

Church Bookfairs

Bookfairs are a great fundraising opportunity for any church. We work with you to select a display of up to twenty-five books that will be shipped to your church at no charge. Customers can preview the display copies and place orders. All ordered books are shipped to your church for distribution. You determine the discount rate charged to the customer, allowing some profit for the church or charitable organization. You can keep display copies for your church library or sell them to customers. A minimum of six weeks is needed to organize the bookfair. Contact Katie Snyder at ksnyder@presbypub.com.
